COREHUMANISTSANS IS A TYPEFACE
REDUCED TO THE MAX: CLEAN AND SIMPLE BUT PEACEFUL, UNPRETENTIOUS AND PLEASANT.

There is no contrast in the characters, which means that the strokes are equally thick everywhere, hence ‘Core’.

The terminals of characters like a, c, e and s point in a horizontal rather than a vertical direction, which gives the typeface an open and accessible character, hence ‘Humanist’.

‘Sans’ comes from ‘sans serif’ which means there are no serifs (the small - typically pointed - extensions at the ends of the strokes of traditional typefaces like TimesRoman and Garamond).

CoreHumanistSans is both suitable for use in smaller text as for headlines. The typeface doesn’t convey any particular ‘atmosphere’ because it isn’t made to fit into any existing typeface classification. One could say that it is rather neutral and unromantic but it does have a certain friendliness about it.

CoreHumanistSans comes standard with SMALL CAPS, ligatures, alternative glyphs for a, e, g and E, arrows, old style numbers for text, lining numbers for tables and support for all Central European languages.

Bold In December 2000, the Assembly revised the scale of assessments to reflect current global circumstances. As part of that revision, the regular budget ceiling was reduced from 25% to 22%. For the least developed countries (LDCs), a ceiling rate of 0.01% is applied. In addition to the ceiling rates, the minimum amount assessed to any member nation (or 'floor' rate) is set at 0.001% of the UN budget. Refer to the table for major contributors.

Light A large share of UN expenditures addresses the core UN mission of peace and security. The peacekeeping budget for the 2005–2006 fiscal year was approximately US$5 billion, €2.5 billion (compared to approximately US$1.5 billion, €995 million for the UN core budget over the same period), with some 70,000 troops deployed in 17 missions around the world. UN peace operations are funded by assessments, using a formula derived from the regular funding scale, but including a weighted surcharge for the five permanent Security Council members, who must approve all peacekeeping operations. As of 1 January 2011, the top 10 providers of assessed financial contributions to United Nations peacekeeping operations were: the United States, Japan, the United Kingdom, Germany, France, Italy, China, Canada, Spain and the Republic of Korea.
